Questions to be raised

Below you will find some preliminary questions to guide the debate on 28 November 2016:

- What is the role of local and regional authorities in building sustainable societies?
 - Is it important to develop transparent and accessible “sustainability criteria” for specific food products? Which ones?
 - Which are the most effective actions that will strengthen and promote the trade of regional and local food chains, such as local healthy foods, “0-KM-Products”, and those food systems that represent a social and cultural heritage, education or communication practice?
 - How to improve the competitiveness of small and medium food enterprises in our regions and cities (especially in the disadvantaged areas)?
